ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board and Citizens of the School District of Orford:

The report of the School Board of the School District of Orford together with the report of the Superintendent of Schools is herewith presented. It is the fifth in the series of reports by the present Superintendent and one of a long list of such reports by School Boards. There will be included in this report an accounting of the moneys of the District and also certain material which has to do with school attendance. Some attention will be given to the more immediate happenings in the schools and suggestions for possible improvements.

Introductory. Great events are happening day after day which are modifying world civilization. So far-reaching are their implications that even the cherished institutions which we in this country possess may be seriously threatened. It would almost appear that democracy, as we know it, is going through such a crisis that every citizen must contribute his total energies to the one great objective of removing the hazards which almost overwhelm us.

These, then, are reasons why the public schools of the land have undertaken so many activities and the teachers in these schools have made such serious contributions. No one can tell when these various tasks will lessen the call upon individual responsibility. It may take more than a generation to eradicate the evils which have arisen. Our public and private school boys and girls, young men and women, need more than ever to be encouraged to support and promote the liberties which we have enjoyed.

Purposeful Activities. The reasoning above gives us some idea of why it seems necessary to provide so many outlets for the activities of both teachers and pupils. All of these activities cannot be reviewed in detail in an Annual Report. Some are mentioned so that we may have a permanent record of the fact that the schools of Orford have endeavored to do their share in promoting the needs of the young people in our schools and at the same time to meet the demands of the government in a period of conflict.

You already know that the teachers have participated in the program of rationing set up by the government to meet an imperative need. The teachers have included in their instruction such modifications of the subject matter as would help the young people to understand the ever-widening area of activities of the government on the war fronts. This is particularly true in the fields of both history and geography as well as in the exercises known in the schools as current events. The older boys and girls, through these activities, are becoming ever more conscious of the fact that they too may be called upon to render unusual service at a not too far-distant date.

The pupils, as a whole, have cooperated in various ways illustrated by the drive for scrap in securing some of the needed materials necessitated by the increased production program. They have also participated in both the sale and purchase of War Savings Stamps. Many of the pupils have rendered definite service in assisting in garden projects in the summer and assisting farmers in harvesting their crops.

It is positively stated that both teachers and pupils have made a conscious effort to do all of those things which can be done in a community such as ours to lessen the sacrifices and to aid the efforts of the men at the front. But with all of this activity, it should be remembered that the learnings which have resulted, indirectly, may be of very great value to the young people in the years ahead.

Teachers. It was with a great deal of regret that through the illness and death of Mr. Sewall Gilman, the high school suffered the loss of a thoroughly trained and successful teacher, and the community, a valuable citizen. It was with some satisfaction that Mr. Gilman was replaced by a man of previous, successful experience who is carrying on in our high school. The teacher of the Orford Street Grammar School, Mr. Heath, entered the services of the U. S. Navy in April, necessitating a change in that position at the end of the school year. The cadet teachers in the high school continue to do reasonably good work and carry on under the supervision and direction of the headmaster. There were no other changes among the teaching personnel so that it can be said that there has been little, if any, retrogression in any of the work.

Music. The schools have been fortunate to have the services of a trained teacher of music during the past two years. Miss Guyer gave the pupils a start in the learning of musical terms and an acquaintance with some of the outstanding musical authors and their compositions. This year Miss Bradley has emphasized the vocal field of music and the pupils are learning how to relate the printed notes and words to the singing voice. It would be regrettable were we to discontinue this work through lack of sufficient funds to meet the necessary expense.

School Lunches. This work has continued this year with foodstuffs furnished in part by parents and friends donating both time and supplies, and in part by the Federal Surplus Commodities Commission. The workers for the fall months were supplied by the W.P.A. Since this source of aid is no longer possible, the teachers and cadets at the Street School have directed and supervised the preparation and serving of the lunches. The citizens of Orfordville have made it possible to continue the plan by the use of funds raised locally. It now seems probable that there will be no surplus commodities available after a few weeks. When this time arrives and for future years if such lunches are to be provided, not only the workers but the food products as well must be furnished by the local citizens through home garden projects and through funds raised locally. It must not be forgotten that one result of the school lunch has been the somewhat improved health of the boys and girls. Actual tests which were made at the beginning and end of the lunch program last year at Orfordville indicated that the pupils gained from five to fifteen pounds in weight. It would seem that some of the under-nourished were receiving great benefits from the program.

Health. A sound and well nourished body tends to improve and make more alert the mind of the child. The school lunch program can only be a part of the necessary diet to assist in building up a strong body. This should be supplemented and strengthened by a well balanced nutritive diet provided on the home front. Nor can it be said that diet and nourishment are sufficient in themselves to build up a resistance to the many hardships which the individual must endure in order to meet the ever increasing demands upon the human system. It is true that Orford has provided a part of a needed program for improving the general health by the employment of a school nurse and through the kind auspices of individuals who gave aid to improve the condition of dental health.

It would appear that more than ever there seems to be a necessity for increased thought concerning the physical well-being of the boys and girls. A new program of physical fitness training is being planned, and it is expected that the teachers will be asked to make some definite contribution in this field. Here again the home must cooperate with the school if best results are to be secured. The growing child needs not only a well balanced diet, but plenty of sleep as well as good exercise if he is to develop a strong body which is to endure the rigors of life. The farm activities may not always be best adapted to promote this end, particularly when young people are allowed to stay up late at night and get up early in the morning to do all of the farm chores.

While it is recognized that during the period of war emergency farmers are hard pressed for securing necessary man power, it must not be forgotten that boys and girls in their early teens have not sufficiently matured to endure extraordinary labors without lessening in some degree their physical fitness to withstand the rigorous activities of adult life.

Regularity of home habits, definitely assigned tasks, and a reasonable amount of physical activity all assist in building up body resistance. Those connected with your schools are ever mindful that one of their duties is to promote the ideal of sound health and good living, but to be most effective, this work must be supplemented by thoughtful care on the part of parents and guardians.

Adult Classes. A change has taken place this year in the type of training offered to adults in the evening classes. It is now possible to open these classes to both men and women of all ages above seventeen. Today courses are in operation for the maintenance, repair and operation of all types of motorized equipment, for the maintenance and repair of farm machinery, and for the increasing production of milk. Other courses of value to farmers will be offered whenever there are ten or more adults who wish to avail themselves of similar programs. So much is to be gained by these courses that it has been deemed best to shorten the sessions to accommodate more people and at the same time to increase the number of weeks that they will be conducted. So successful were these courses last year that the men taking them received substantial training for either their war or civilian activities.

Repairs. There have been many minor repairs made during the past year. The shingling of the building at Orfordville has been completed, improvements have been made in the heating plant at that school, and improvements in the general appearance of the building have taken place. Some minor improvements have been made at the Orford Street School. Since the buildings are growing older, plans should be made for painting the buildings reasonably soon. This is particularly true of the Orfordville School, and to a lesser degree of the Street School. The work which has been begun to improve the fence surrounding the playground at Orfordville should be continued and completed as soon as possible.

While a group of agricultural boys in the high school has done and can do many of the lesser repairs, it must not be lost sight of that this department is operated for educational purposes, and it behooves those who are connected with the school's affairs to be on the alert to avoid undue exploitation of these same boys. Their contributions should all be of such a nature as to give them educational experiences which will be of value to them long after they have completed their high school courses.

While the heating plant at the Orfordville School has been improved, it may be that as soon as such equipment can be secured that it will be advantageous to install a different type of heater in that building so that coal can be utilized instead of wood. This is due to the fact that there has been an increasing difficulty in securing an adequate supply of wood for use in that building.

Budget. The School Board is pleased to report to the School District that there will be a somewhat larger balance at the end of this school year than was originally anticipated. This was due in part to economies and in part to the lesser amount needed for high school tuition. A survey of the high school expectations seems to indicate that a reduction can be made in the amount requested for tuition for another year. It appears reasonable to expect that there will be slightly more receipts than was at first thought. All of these factors have made it possible for the School Board to request an appropriation which is substantially less than last year—nearly 10%. This reduction should not be thought of as permanent, because it may not be possible to have the same success in future years. The community may well be satisfied that its School Board will not waste or recklessly spend money which may be available to them for use in connection with the public school.

Comments. The objectives set up at the beginning of the school year in September have not all been reached. Nevertheless, it can be stated that the teachers have invariably given their best efforts toward meeting such objectives. Sometimes it seems to parents and citizens that not enough is done in connection with the schools for the boys and girls. Often these same parents feel that they must get into the school program to help. This in itself is commendable, but it may amount to a thwarting of the very efforts which the teachers are making to develop self-disciplined boys and girls. While visits to the schools are welcomed, such visits should not take on the responsibility of attempting to direct the activities of the teacher or supervise the free activities of the boys and girls. The School Board, citizens, and teachers should all work together to the common purpose of increasing the knowledges the pupils gain and improving their behavior patterns. Cooperation must take place under the general guidance and control of the teacher on the job so that no divided responsibility will interfere with a well coordinated program.

Those of us connected with your schools wish to express appreciation for the wholesome interest and the general willingness on the part of all to assist in this most important activity of the community.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT J. FULLER,
Superintendent of Schools.
